From the Mighty Karakoram to the Gobi Desert

Your adventure starts in Pakistan, where you will navigate through the mesmerizing Karakoram Highway. Known as one of the world's highest paved roads, this route offers breathtaking views of snow-capped mountains, deep valleys, and stunning landscapes that will leave you in complete awe.

As you cycle through challenging terrains, you will pass by iconic landmarks such as the Hussaini Bridge, Attabad Lake, and the stunning Passu Cones. These views will make for perfect photo stops, ensuring memories that will last a lifetime.

Continuing your journey, you will cross the Khunjerab Pass, situated at a mind-boggling altitude of 4,693 meters. This is the highest international border crossing in the world, connecting Pakistan to China. The pass offers a panoramic vista of the Karakoram Range, with snow-capped peaks stretching as far as the eye can see.

Exploring China's Extravagance

As you enter China, get ready to be mesmerized by its diverse landscapes. From the serene beauty of the Xinjiang province to the vastness of the Gobi Desert, each mile will bring you closer to the wonders of the Orient.

Cycling through the Silk Road, you will encounter ancient cities like Kashgar, Turpan, and Dunhuang. These historical gems are home to ancient ruins, bustling bazaars, and architectural marvels that reflect the rich history of this region.

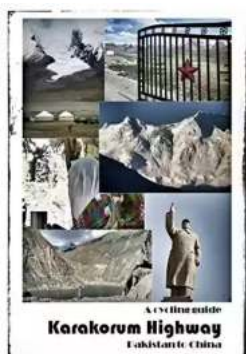

One of the highlights of this route is the final destination—Xian, home of the Terracotta Army. Marvel at the thousands of life-sized clay soldiers, horses, and chariots guarding the tomb of Emperor Qin Shi Huang. A visit to this UNESCO World Heritage site is an experience of a lifetime.

Cycling from Pakistan to China is an extraordinary adventure that will test your limits, leave you speechless, and provide you with a profound appreciation for the beauty of our planet. It is a journey that combines natural splendor, cultural exploration, and an adrenaline rush like no other.

If you are up for the challenge, start planning your trip today. Equip yourself with the necessary gear, train your body and mind, and get ready to embark on a once-in-a-lifetime voyage from Pakistan to China on your trusty bike.

Remember, this journey is not just about the destination, but about every moment you spend pedaling through breathtaking landscapes, interacting with locals, and immersing yourself in the beauty of both Pakistan and China. So, pack your bags, hop on your bike, and let the adventure begin!

A very basic guidebook that describes the Karakorum Highway or KKH for cycling purposes. It answers questions like how expensive it can be, where to start, how is the road like, what kind of bike/clothes/camping equipment/etc. should a traveller include, visa information, how easy is to cross from Pakistan to China, what kind of towns or villages can be found etc.

It does not include a description of bars, restaurants or every single sleeping option, since a lot of people who is doing a trip like this would want to find out that on his/her own. Also, so it doesn't feel like the guidebook is telling you where to go or what to visit. It includes the opinion of the writer, though.

Maps and altitude profiles are included, and also links to download GPS trails.

Lost of pictures illustrate the route.

Very worth for its price.
