"Even when my brother-in-law was dragged off and lynched by his feet to the deck railings, I still thought it was one big jape, some utterly obscure practical joke to be played on unsuspecting foreigners. I was still desperately hoping that I wouldn't have to take part. That was my first mistake..."

In November 2011, I moved to South Korea to teach English at the British Council's Seoul office.

I had never been to Asia in my life. What was I thinking?!

This book is a thought-provoking, often humorous collection of the incredible things I've seen and experienced in my time in this truly amazing country, including:

- Suffering through a brutal and painful traditional wedding ritual

- Making kimchi in ancient rural villages
- Playing drums on stage with one of Korea's biggest rock bands
- Teaching North Korean defectors
- Cycling across the Korean peninsula

If you'd like to hear about these adventures, and more, then read on! Ultimately, I hope reading this book will help you in some way to feel closer to the people and culture of the country I now call home.
