Reid Place Series Book 1

Ahhh...Reid Place...!

Who wouldn't want to live in the most idyllic location known to fiction-kind, where family, friendship, and love abound?

Delilah Rose Taylor grew up on this perfect cul-de-sac, watching and learning about life, love, and relationships from the legends of the Indelible Love Series: Donovan and Delaney Taylor, Jake and Emily Reid, Max and Jane Davis, Nick and Bee Reid, Michael and Chloe Bennington, and her great-grandmother, Estelle Cowper Reid Ascot Bennington. Armed with copious heroes and heroines, our beautiful, bright, and kind Delilah should be an expert in life, love, and relationships, right? WRONG! WRONG! WRONG! WRONG! Engaged right out of college, Delilah is drowning in a sea of problems, namely Rhys Kent and Nolan O'Shaughnessy.

Rhys is the man of any girl's dreams. He speaks with a beautiful accent, he's handsome, he's rich, and he's a perfect gentleman. However, just because two perfect people exist, it doesn't mean they're meant for one another.

That's what Nolan is out to prove! Nolan O'Shaughnessy is in a class of his own. He's not the typical handsome man. He's atypically smart, and he's believed, since age five, that he and Delilah were meant to be man and wife. He's sure of himself, but not exactly. He loves Delilah, or so he believes. He has ideals for his life, but isn't positive that his ideas are going to win him his bride. What to do with a man who's this (un)sure of himself?

Reid Place begins a new dynasty of Reids, Taylors, Davises and Benningtons. Watch how this generation proves that growing up with perfect love means not a damn thing when trying to find his and her own perfect love.
