Can you afford to retire to an RV? Is the RV lifestyle for you? And ? What is the RV lifestyle?

Retire to an RV: The Roadmap to Affordable Retirement provides you with the information to make that decision. RV lifestyle experts, Jaimie Hall Bruzenak and Alice Zyetz, share their combined knowledge based on 17 years on the road and five previous books. They are joined by 41 solo and couple RVers who have contributed their real-life experiences.

Here is what you will learn to help you make your decision.

: 16 RVers describe how they save money living on the road.

55 WAYS TO SAVE MONEY while living the RV Lifestyle.

LINKS TO 200+ RESOURCES for additional information.

SECTION I: RV LIFESTYLE

1. Is the RV lifestyle for me? What does the lifestyle entail? Do I have to sell my house? 11 RVers describe why they went on the road too much snow, it was time, a matter of life and death, following the American Dream, and more.
2. How do I make the decision? Learn about a tool to help you make the decision plus other methods to decide.
3. How do I get started? What do you do with your "stuff," your furniture? How to say good-bye to friends and family? What is the 1-3-5 technique? RVers give their real-life examples.
4. How do I get my mail? Find the answer to the most-asked question as well as availability of cell phones, email, Internet, other devices. Plus links to additional resources.
5. How will I find friends? How to build an on-the-road community while you're traveling.

6. What will I do all day? Besides visiting beautiful scenery, learn about the infinite variety of activities you can pursue on the road.

7. Where will I stay at night? Learn about all your options, including private campgrounds, public campgrounds, Elks and Moose campgrounds, membership parks, casinos, dry camping (no hookups). Can I really stay in a Walmart parking lot? Links for specific information.

8. How will I stay in touch with my family? Here are 25+ ways to stay in touch with your grandchildren as you travel. Find out how others have helped their elderly parents.

9. Where will I go? Anywhere throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico. Links provide information to hundreds of national, state and local parks, monuments, and scenic byways, plus additional travel ideas.

SECTION II: SELECTING THE RIGHT RV

Chapters 10-13 provide all the information you need to decide what type of RV is right for your particular needs and how to make the best purchase you can. Advice from experienced RVers and multiple links will assist you with your decision.

SECTION III: MONEY

Chapters 14-18 offer the nitty gritty information to help you decide how YOU can afford to retire to the RV lifestyle. Chapter 14 provides a budget worksheet to help you organize your finances. Based on Jaimie's popular book, Support Your RV Lifestyle, chapters 15 and 16 show how you can work or volunteer on the road to add to your income and still enjoy the traveling life. Finally, chapters 16 and 17 help you choose your domicile and find the optimum insurance to make sure you are covered. Once again, personal experiences of other RVers and links to informational sites provide more information.

SECTION IV: SPECIAL SITUATIONS

The next chapters 19-21 answer the questions of how can I travel with my children, how can I travel by myself, and how can I travel with my pets.

SECTION V: LIFE HAPPENS

The last chapters 22-29 answer the remaining questions about life on the road. What if you are not handy, should you travel? What happens if you get sick? You will get honest, realistic answers to your questions. We have all been in many of these situations and continue to thrive on the road.

22. What if I'm disabled?
23. I'm not handy. Should I travel?
24. What do I need to know about RV systems?
25. Will I be safe?
26. Can my partner and I survive?
